

If you're a freelancer BECTU membership means access to low-cost public liability insurance (and much more!)

Need PLI?

Access a £10m policy at low cost through BECTU

More and more employers in broadcasting, film, theatre and live events require the freelancers they hire to arrange their own public liability insurance. At BECTU we've arranged a group policy, via our specialist brokers Hencilla Canworth, to help out. This benefit of membership, at a low additional cost*, is one which 1000s of our members choose.

*£31.50 fee for the policy period 1 May 2018 – 30 April 2019.

What is public liability insurance (PLI)?

PLI covers the financial consequences of legal liability claims against you following accidental bodily injury/or property damage to any third party, not your employee, arising from your individual employment. BECTU's policy is specifically designed to meet the needs of freelancers working in the creative sectors covered by BECTU which include broadcasting, film, theatre and live events.

Questions about the policy? Contact Hencilla on 020 8686 5050 or email bectupli@hencilla.co.uk

Hencilla Canworth Ltd is Authorised and Regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority under reference number 226263

Key features of BECTU's Group PLI policy include:

- Any activity related to your individual employment within broadcasting, entertainment, cinema, theatre and live events.
- Cover for your own individual activities (and that of a spouse working as a Director in a clerical capacity) when working under your limited Company.
- £10,000,000 limit of indemnity per member per claim (or per policy period for Product Liability claims).
- Worldwide cover and worldwide jurisdiction, including health and safety legal costs.
- Indemnity to any Principal for whom you are carrying out a contract.
- Damage to third party property in your care, custody or control to £25,000 (excluding leased, hired or rented property).
- Option to increase the cover for damage to third party property from £25K to £250,000 for £122 per year or part year. (Includes £10 admin fee).
